cell supporting molecules (c.s.m.)

Dr med. P. Kleanthous has dedicated his entire life to science – with success. Insights gained from treating age-related illnesses enabled him to develop a rejuvenating skin treatment called

SkinTone* - sono beauty lifting.

He used the research results of a cell biologist who discovered cell supporting molecules (c.s.m) in our cells, which carry information about the regenerative capacity of the organism. Up to the age of 25 years, our cells contain these cell supporting molecules in sufficient quantity. They decrease in number as we get older and this therefore reduces the exchange of information within and among the cells. This information is essential for maintaining cell functions and for balanced cell growth.

The KLEANTHOUS principle is based on the constant improvement of the skin structure with cell supporting molecules (c.s.m.). Wrinkles caused by facial expressions or dry skin, elastosis or skin irritations, whatever the problem may be, cell supporting molecules (c.s.m.) reliably support the regeneration of all skin functions – the basis for real anti-ageing treatment.

KLEANTHOUS

Ultrasound is the term for sound waves beyond the range of human hearing. They include very high-pitched sounds in the range of more than 20,000 oscillations per second (Hz). For many years, sports medicine specialists have been using ultrasound as an aid to introduce agents into the skin.

In cosmetics, ultrasound was first introduced in the 1990s. Again, Dr. Kleanthous was a pioneer in this field. He was the first to employ ultrasonic micro-vibrations for his anti-ageing treatment to introduce as many cell supporting molecules (c.s.m.) as possible into the skin in as short a time as possible. Sound waves detox the skin, thus improving the absorption of agents. As a pleasant side effect the treatment smoothes scars, produces collagen, reduces skin impurities and improves blood circulation in the tissue.

Thanks to KLEANTHOUS ultrasound has become the leading technology in cosmetic treatments.

New and also revolutionary: ultrasound with spectral light and sono resonance. Carefully tuned ultrasound frequencies can boost the effectiveness of virtually any cosmetic treatment.

24 7*every day care24 7every day care*

Life is synonymous with evolution. Environmental conditions, the seasons of the year and personal circumstances are constantly changing. Our skin has to adapt and respond to these changes. However, the skin is not always able to maintain its balance. On the one hand, it has to build up its acid mantle, and on the other hand it needs to store a sufficient amount of moisture. Sometimes the skin is completely off balance and reacts with redness or flaky areas.

Skincare system with cell supporting molecules (c.s.m.) actively supports the natural skin functions.

Depending on the product, selected plant substances complement its effectiveness. This allows the skin to build its own defences. It regains its balance and becomes biologically younger. A skincare system helps your skin regenerate and look fresh and radiant.
